The mission of the Career Services Office is to:

- Empower students and alumni, through shared information and skills training, to make and implement job choice decisions that will result in satisfying employment.
- Actively market the Law School and its students with potential employers.
- Provide top quality services to each student, graduate, faculty member, or employer with whom we have contact.
- Creatively utilize Law School (students, deans, faculty and staff), Law Society, Law School Alumni Association and community resources in furthering the mission statement.
- Acquire and implement state-of-the-art technology to facilitate networking and the job search process.

Your role in the job search is to:

- Take responsibility for your own job search to diligently and consistently seek employment.
- Determine your desired career by performing a self-assessment of your talents and preferences.
- Do your own market research by attending, whenever possible, lectures or presentations designed to provide students with information about the legal market and conducting your own informational interviews.
- Establish and maintain a network of professional relationships.
- Remain in contact with the Career Services Staff, so we can make you aware of job postings for which you would be a qualified candidate.
- Develop and practice job searching skills including resume writing, interviewing, etc. and to seek assistance to develop those skills if necessary.

BYU Law School Policy on Non-discrimination

As a law school accredited by the American Bar Association (ABA), and as a member of the Association of American Law Schools (AALS), the J. Reuben Clark Law School provides equal opportunity in legal education for all persons, including faculty and employees with respect to hiring, continuation, promotion and continuing faculty status, applicants for admission, enrolled students, and graduates, without discrimination or segregation on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, age, or disability. The Law School firmly expects that the employer will observe these principles. Because of the Law School=s religious affiliation and purpose, ABA standards and AALS regulations as applied to the Law School require equal opportunity on the basis of sexual orientation but not on the basis of conduct. All members of the Law School community are required to comply with the Brigham Young University Honor Code, which requires chastity outside of marriage and fidelity in marriage. The Law School, as is permitted by ABA standards and AALS regulations, also prefers faithful members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in employment.

Any law student who feels he or she has been subject to discrimination prohibited by the above policy should contact Assistant Dean Mary Hoagland, 239 JRCB, or may contact the University Equal Employment Office, A-285 ASB.
